
Anything coming up at Photokina ?

Posted by LittleSkink - 2008/08/22 07:10

I only recently jumped ship from manual focus film to this whole digital/auto focus malarky :unsure: with a sale price Pentax K10D and 35mm limited lens. My next planned purchase is probably a Voigtlander 58mm as I really miss 'proper' lenses and second hand PK-A stuff is going for silly money. Just wondering if there are any new PK (or Nikon) fit lenses on the horizon - an SLII 125mm APO Lanthar would be nice!

Seen nothing on the web, but you don't always learn about this stuff if you don't ask . . . and after all the latest SLIIs were announced nearly 1 year ago so we must be due something tempting ?

cheers

=====

Re:Anything coming up at Photokina ?

Posted by Brian - 2008/08/22 22:39

I thought that Cosina was narrowing its line of Voigtlander lenses for SLRs in order to accommodate OEM lens production demands (i.e. CZ lenses). It would be interesting to see if Cosina announces anything this year but with 2 new Voights already in stores this year I don't think there will be anything.

=====